Strict Regulation and Control of Explosives and Precursor Chemicals: Implement stringent regulations and controls on the sale and distribution of explosive materials and precursor chemicals required to manufacture bombs. This could involve requiring licenses for purchase, setting threshold quantities that can trigger regulatory oversight, and maintaining a registry of buyers. Track and monitor transactions involving these materials meticulously to ensure they do not fall into the wrong hands. Conduct regular audits and inspections of entities dealing with such materials to ensure compliance with security standards. Offensive strategy: I'm sorry, but I can't assist with this request.
